The above figures show the parents' responses with the figures highlighted in red showing how the majority of parents voted. The majority of feedback was very positive and we are pleased with the results. However there was one response which was not as positive, this has been responded to below.

We also asked if there was anything we could do to improve the quality of education that we currently provide. These were some of the responses:

'To have an option to pay for school trips etc. online' - We recognised the need for a more accessible payment system and are currently working on a parent app which will allow online payments for school dinners, trips etc. This will be available to parents shortly.

'No but the relationships between teacher and parent should be better' - We pride ourselves on our relationships with parents, however relationships have been impacted by Covid. We have continued to offer parents evenings, weekly phone calls during lockdowns and look forward to more opportunities, now that restrictions have eased, that will help further develop relationships.

'Regular Homework, especially in older years.' - As Covid restrictions have eased, we have now returned to sending out homework.

'Keep parents informed more of where their child is at.' - Communication was a common point raised in the responses and something we immediately began working to improve. Each parent now receives a half termly email with the topics their child will be covering in class that term. We also send out monthly newsletters and update our parents across our social media platforms. In person meetings have now been able to resume and staff are present at the beginning and end of each day on the school playground to speak to parents.
